AtlasCare's donation means a "Revolution" for Youth Unlimited

Oakville ON: There are over half a million young people living in the GTA. And it is the vision of Youth Unlimited that through strategic partnerships and alliances as well as their own front-line endeavours, they will reach out to all these young people and help them attain their full life potential and a bright future.

Youth Unlimited is a recent AtlasCare Care to Share recipient of $1,000 and will use the funds for the start-up of a new program in the Willowdale community called Revolution(s).

The vision of Revolution(s) is to foster a community of young leaders to discover purpose and passion, the value of service, and a healthy way of life. The program has a three-fold strategy to accomplish this vision: providing access to the sport of cycling and outdoor adventure, providing opportunities to serve in the community, and establishing committed and long-term mentoring relationships with young people.

"The monies received from the Care to Share program are essential to provide the necessary equipment for young people to be able to participate in cycling and the other activities in Revolution(s)," says Scott Moore of Youth Unlimited.

Youth Unlimited is a faith-based charity that believes in the unlimited potential of youth. They are committed to helping them develop wholistically, both personally and spiritually, by providing caring people to whom they can turn. With 50 staff and an additional 500 volunteers, they have been able to reach around 2,400 young people who are involved in one of their 35 programs. Their primary target audience is community youth in the Greater Toronto Area ages 10 through 25, often focusing on young people experiencing poverty or living in marginalized communities.

"We are very pleased to play a small part in helping get the wheels in motion for Youth Unlimited's new program," says Roger Grochmal, AtlasCare President and CBO.
